
United Kingdom and Ireland: Reported abortions, 1958-2015

30 August 2016

Wm. Robert Johnston

Abstract: This document summarizes compiled abortion figures for the United Kingdom, its constituent regions, and the Republic of Ireland for 1958-2015.

Abortion figures for the United Kingdom are generally reported separately by its constituent regions, these regions having differences in abortion policies as well. No official source (including the United Nations) reports reliable total abortions for the United Kingdom, necessitating the merger of such data from multiple sources as is done here.

England and Wales abortions are reported together by the UK Department of Health, usually also reporting abortions obtained by non-residents by place of residence for regions including Scotland, Northern Ireland, the Isle of Man, Jersey, and Guernsey. Scotland abortions are reported by the Scotland ISD, also reporting total abortions obtained in Scotland by English and Welsh residents collectively. Northern Ireland has reported abortions for some years, these being limited in number due to stricter policies on abortion. The Isle of Man, Jersey, and Guernsey have each reported abortion occurrences for some years, with these regions each having different abortion policies.

Abortion is generally illegal in the Republic of Ireland (the law was changed in 2013 to permit abortion in limited circumstances), but many Irish women obtain abortions abroad. England and Wales and the Netherlands report statistics on abortions obtained by residents of Ireland.

Table 1 summarizes abortion occurrences and abortions by place of residence for the United Kingdom, Guernsey, Jersey, and the Isle of Man. Abortion occurrences in Guernsey, Jersey, and the Isle of Man are assumed to be for respective residents unless otherwise specified; total abortions to residents of these three regions, whether occurring in the UK or the respective territory, are listed in the RES columns on the right. Numbers are reported abortions from the sources at the end of this document, except for estimated numbers which are indicated in parentheses. These estimates are made as follows:

- Estimated abortions distributed between the Isle of Man, Guernsey, and Jersey by residence and performed in the UK, 1968-1985: Only totals for the three regions are reported for these years; they are allocated in proportion to live births for these regions with a higher abortion percentage for Jersey, given that the abortion percentages for the Isle of Man and Guernsey were both 17.5% in 1986-1987 while for Jersey it was 22.5%

- Estimated abortions distributed between Guernsey and Jersey by residence and performed in the UK, 1990-1993, 1995-1998, and 2001: Only totals for the two regions are reported for these years. The fractional distribution between the two regions was linearly interpolated to obtain these estimates.
- Abortions by Jersey residents obtained in Jersey, 1990-1993, 1997-2001, 2005-2007, and 2011-2013: Abortions performed in Jersey are assumed to be obtained by Jersey residents, given that 99.9% of abortions performed in Jersey in 2002-2004, 2008-2010, and 2014 were obtained by Jersey residents.
- Estimated abortions performed in Jersey in 1994-1996 and in Guernsey in 2001-2003: Estimated are linearly interpolated across these reporting gaps.
- Estimated abortions performed in Jersey in 2015 and in Guernsey in 2013-2015: These estimates are based on trends for the last three years in each region.

Table 2 provides available data on abortions obtained abroad by residents of the Republic of Ireland.
